

When I started in this role, there was a severe lack of consistency across campus in how branding was used. There was a need for clarity in how to use elements and also who to contact for approval when designing materials. The brand guide has helped to provide guidance at the most basic level and to direct people to me if they need something beyond what is covered in the guide.