

At TMSA Triad, when we learned that we became a B school, the letter B made us think of bees. Bees are hardworking, dedicated animals, and we wanted to show how our staff worked tirelessly to achieve this success. We wrote a script to highlight how our staff put in so much effort to become a B school. In the video, our students pretend they are just learning about the school's achievement at the same time the Principal is involved so much so that he even rips his shirt in excitement! The video also features our entire school staff using all available media equipment, including drones, to capture the action. In the end, we show our dedicated "bees," which represent our hardworking staff, and the video concludes with this tribute. We published the video on YouTube and shared it with all parents, students, and staff. Additionally, we placed the video on the digital signages around the school.
