

The purpose of this video is to highlight the strong partnership between Suffolk Public Schools and the Suffolk Police Department. According to the Code of Virginia, a School Resource Officer (SRO) is a certified law enforcement officer employed by a local law enforcement agency to provide security and law enforcement services to Virginia's public elementary and secondary schools. At Suffolk Public Schools, SROs play a vital role in fostering positive relationships with students, helping to create a safe and supportive learning environment. This positive partnership not only enhances school safety but also strengthens community trust. When parents see a strong, collaborative relationship between law enforcement and our schools, it provides reassurance that their children are learning in a secure and nurturing environment.
